REVENUE DEPARTMENT

NOTIFICATION

Shimla-2, the 30th July, 1983

No. Revenue-D (F) 11-5/83.—In supersession of this Department notification No. Revenue C (A) 4-2/73-Vol. II, dated the 3rd September, 1980, the Governor, Himachal Pradesh is pleased to reconstitute Committee to deal with all matters relating to the situation arising out of natural calamities disasters, for a further period of 2 years. The details of the functions of the aforesaid Committee and the procedure to be adopted for its functioning are given at Annexure-A.

2. The Composition of the Committee will be as follows:—

1. Chief Secretary to the Govt. of H. P. Chairman

ATTAR SINGH,
Financial Commissioner-cum-Secretary.

ANNEXURE A

Guidelines to Standing Committee at State Level for dealing with natural disasters.

1. The Committee should take immediate steps to consider and anticipate the situations which are likely to arise in the case of natural disasters such as floods, cyclones, earthquakes and large-scale fires. It should draw up detailed plans for dealing with such situations, fix responsibility on organisations and individuals for implementing them in case of need and ensure by periodic drills and other means that when a disaster situation actually occurs, every body concerned will know exactly what has to be done.

2. Engineering authorities in charge of maintenance of flood control works should survey all such works in their charge, every year before the on set of monsoons, and warn the standing committee and the concerned District Level Committees in case it becomes apparent to them that there is a likelihood of the failure of any of the existing works. Such a warning should be issued well in advance so as to give the authorities adequate time to take necessary precautionary measures.

3. General instructions regarding flood-relief operations and the duties of officers and men in such situations should be incorporated in the revenue, police and other State Manuals, if they do not already exist.

4. In drawing up detailed plans for dealing with natural disasters responsibility for rescue and relief work should, as far as possible, be placed on the Revenue authorities and uniformed services such as the police and the Home Guards. Members of these services should, if necessary, be given special training for this purpose.

5. Since rescue and relief operations are often hampered by lack of essential supplies and equipment, all necessary steps should be taken by State Governments to ensure that these are either stock piled at convenient places in advance or are capable of being requisitioned without delay in case of need. These will include:—

- (1) Clothing and blankets.
- (2) Tents and tarpaulins and other material for providing temporary shelter.
- (3) Dry rations as well as fuel to convert dry rations into cooked food without loss of time, if this is found to be necessary.
- (4) Essential communications equipment such as field telephones and two-way radio telephone sets and transmitters. An inventory of such transmitters may also be kept ready for use in such emergencies.
- (5) Boats, both country and powered for rescue operations in the event of break-down of road communications on account of floods.
- (6) Bleaching powder for disinfections purposes.
- (7) First aid kits and medicines for simple ailments.
- (8) Sand bags for the repair of flood protection embankments.
- (9) Hurricane lanterns and battery operated lights.
- (10) pumps diesel pumps to be preferred to electric pumps. Inventory of large size pumps may also be kept readily available.
- (11) Cranes and earth-moving machinery they may not be always readily available, therefore, an inventory of such machinery should be kept ready.
- (12) Utensils.
- (13) Aircraft for aerial surveys.

6. Plans should also be made for the requisitioning of Government as well as privately-owned trucks for transport of essential goods at short notice.

7. In States which are liable to floods, the Committee should held a special meeting at the beginning of each summer season and satisfy itself that all necessary steps had been taken to deal with floods as soon as they occur.

8. The Committee should meet as soon as disaster situation actually develops and set up a control room in accordance with the contingency plans already made and notified. Such a control room should be manned round the clock and be geared to receive all relevant information regarding the disaster, to act as the focal point for immediate consideration of rescue and relief measures in a co-ordinated and cool manner and for the speedy issue of orders and instructions to the agencies concerned. Such control rooms should also function at headquarters of affected districts.

9. The Committee should meet atleast once a day during the period that the emergency situation lasts. Apart from the Army Representatives being represented in the Committee will be advisable for the heads of the Central police organisations posted in the vicinity to be invited to the meetings of the Committee as soon as any natural disaster occurs so that he is fully in touch with the State Government to handle it. This would facilitate the calling in the assistance of the Central Policy Organisation. It would also ensure that there is the fullest possible liaison between the State and Central agencies and the military authorities in tackling the disaster situation.

10. Assistance by the Armed forces should be requisitioned only when it becomes absolutely necessary even than only for such special purposes as cannot be handled by the State Government. Assistance by the Armed Forces should be in accordance with the blue book on instructions on aid to the Civil authorities by the Armed Forces.

11. It is extremely important that flood forecasting and flood warning systems should function properly. Wherever such systems already exist, they should be made more effective. Public address systems must be kept in readiness to warn the people in time about the danger of the impending disaster.

12. Flood warning authorities should be suitably trained to interpret flood forecasts so as to enable them to give to the higher authorities a clear picture of the possible areas of flooding. For this purpose flood zone maps should be prepared and kept ready for information, both for the District level and the high power committees.

13. The State Government should earmark the agencies at the State and district levels who would be responsible for receiving the material aid flowing into the disaster area and as soon as the relief measures are undertaken, proper accounts should be maintained of all stores, equipment etc. issued.
